

plac
M<sup>r</sup> & M<sup>rs</sup> JOHN BROWN'S.

VISIT to LONDON

to see

THE

GRAND EXPOSITION

OF ALL NATIONS.

How they were astonished at its Wonders !!
Inconvenienced by the Crowds, & frightened out of their Wits, by the Foreigners.

Mr & Mrs John Brown arrive at the Exhibition, Mrs B. had no idea they could have carried it, to such a length. She despairs of ever getting through it.

In the terrific rush to get in, a desperate row ensues. Grand melee of all Nations. The Browns, barely escape with their lives.

They are carried in by the crowd.

Mr B. gets her bonnet dreadfully out of shape. Mr B. loses his hat, and coat tail. The little B.s escape wonderfully.

They soon set themselves to rights: and begin to look about them. Mr B. purchases a Catalogue!

A Chinese explains, only they can't understand some of the wonderful productions of the Celestial Empire!

A good natured Don Cossack takes notice of Anna Maria, much to her terror. Some Negroes exhibit their ivories to little Johnny.

Mr B. takes a party of Bedouins for some dark Gent<sup>n</sup> in their Bed clothes & is quite shocked.

After viewing the productions of Germany, they ascend to the Gallery, to see the Transept. Johnny will climb up the railing, and the consequence is, he pitches over.

Fortunately he is caught on the branch of one of the Trees, he is rescued from his perilous situation by a Bosjeman.

They go to have some refreshment, a party from the Cannibal Islands, after eyeing little Johnny, in a mysterious manner, offer a price for him.

A party of Esquimaux, Indians, &c seize a Tub of Tallow, and have a great feast!

The Browns accosted 'by some of the most polite Gent<sup>n</sup>. they'd ever met'. Chevaliers d'Industrie, who go upon the principles of Liberté, Egalité &c. M<sup>rs</sup> B. is so alarmed at the impudent way the foreigners look at her, that M<sup>r</sup> B. indignantly quits the place.

On leaving the Exhibition, they are nearly suffocated by clouds of tobacco smoke, the Foreigners are puffing in all directions. M<sup>rs</sup> B. cant stand the smoke, so they retire to a remote part of the Park.

Being oppressed with the heat, they erect an Impromptu Wigwam: in imitation of those, they see about the Park.

They are surprised by a party of American Indians who throw them into a state of extreme terror.

Returning from the Park, they take a turn in Regent St, & see a little Fashionable life.

Mr & Mrs B, and family, visit a Theatre.

Not being able to find sleeping accommodation at the Hotels, or Lodging Houses, they make themselves as comfortable as they can, in a Cab for the night, with orders to be driven to the Station for the first Train in the morning, having had enough of LONDON & the EX

